

Katherine Beaty received a BFA in studio arts from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. She began her book and conservation training at Etherington Conservation Center in Greensboro, NC. She went on to receive an MA in art conservation from Buffalo State College. Since then, Katherine has had a special interest in Islamic book structures, treating a wide number of Islamic materials at the Library of Congress, as well as for the libraries at Harvard University, where she is currently employed as a book conservator for special collections.